ROAD ENGINEERS HOLDING MEETING

Second Annual Convention of Society is Held in Charleston.

CHARLESTON, Jan. 27.—The County Road Engineers' Society of West Virginia is meeting in the assembly room of the Kanawha hotel, in the second annual convention of the society. The convention will close today.

Prominent men of the state such as ex-Governor A. B. White, State Geologist Dr. I. C. White, Secretary of the West Virginia Board of Trade, B. Naylor, Charles H. Hoyt, representative of the United States public road office, and several others are present, and they addressed the assembly of county engineers of the state.

S. Howe Bonar, of Moundsville, president of the society, delivered the opening address as follows:

Bonar's Speech.
"My Fellow Engineers and Gentlemen: I have considered it a high honor bestowed upon me by this society, in fact the highest honor in the gift of its members upon its organization, and I cannot express my appreciation of the privilege of thus presiding over this great coming together of the representative men of my profession in this, the capital city of our state.

"West Virginia is a great state and the people are a great people, but I shall not at this time dwell upon either in the short time I shall talk to you. Neither do I wish to dwell upon the ways, means or methods of the construction and the maintaining of our highways, for ample time will be given to the discussion of these subjects in the sessions in the regular order of the program, and what I shall say to you now shall not be as a preface or introductory.

"Well do we, and each of us, remember how, at the call of our worthy state commissioner, Mr. Light, in December, 1909, we from the northern and eastern Panhandle and along the Virginia and Kentucky border, up and down the Ohio river, across the valleys of this state to the Potomac, we found our way to the city of Parkersburg in answer to that call and there to be made welcome by the citizens and officials of that generous city.

"That meeting was presided over by Mr. Light, and its speakers consisted of several congressmen from our own state, and one whose name I recall from the state of Ohio, one of our ex-governors. Also an able representative of the department of public roads from the national capital, and our state geologist and many others.

State to Be Congratulated.
"All these men were enthusiastic and eager in their commendation of the legislature of our state in their enactment and giving to us our present law as concerning the affairs of our public highways, and also in the congratulating the taxpayers of our state upon the operative inauguration of this law with the beginning of our official administration.

"In this meeting to which I have just referred we were as one common class of parishoners, and Mr. Light occupied a sort of position as presiding elder—if you will permit and pardon the expression. Today we are men of experience, experienced at least to the extent of our first year's service, and in this brief time two things at least we have learned; one is that while it is possible to pump water by wind power, our public highways cannot be maintained in the same manner, and another is that while our resources or ability to construct and maintain our public highways financially has increased but little, yet the expectations of the people by reason of the new law and our positions becoming operative here have in many instances increased 500 per cent.

"We are come together in this class meeting of experience as servants of the commonwealth of our respective counties, that we may be instructed and educated along the lines of our profession; that we may be better equipped and qualified for the discharge of our official duties.

Object Educational.
"I use the word educational because these meetings and the object of our organization and coming together are purely educational and our work should go hand in hand with other great educational interests of this great state of ours, and here let me say, as your executive officer that it is just as necessary that we should have a department of public roads in our civil government as to have a department of public schools, and just as necessary, gentlemen, a county road engineer in each of the counties of this state as that we shall have a county superintendent of schools.

"This department of our civil government so badly neglected in the past should have the best thoughts and consideration of legislators and our best efforts."

HOTEL SOLD
Doddridge County Men Buy the Blennerhassett at Parkersburg.

A deal has been closed by which U. G. Summers and J. B. Trainer, of West Union, bought the Blennerhassett hotel at Parkersburg, from W. W. Walker. The property will change hands at midnight tonight.

The new owners are well known business men and politicians of Doddridge county. Mr. Summers is county clerk of that county, and Mr. Trainer is its sheriff. As their official residence necessarily is and must continue to be West Union, they will not go there to personally manage the hotel. Porter Stout will be placed in charge and will have the entire management and conduct of the popular hostelry. Mr. Stout is a man of business ability and affable disposition and has many friends all over the state, and will without doubt make a success as a landlord.
